

A LITURGY FOR TRANSGENDER DAY OF REMEMBRANCE

CALL TO WORSHIP

Be with us, loving God in all of our journeys
From near and from far and histories unknown

Be with us, kind God in strength and in weakness
The lost and forsaken the proud and the strong

Be with us, creative God in all of our beings
Where life in our genders can truly belong

Be with us, supporting God in all of our actions
Fulfilling your Kingdom where all people come

Be with us, loving God in all of our wishes
That rest in your love, when all are as one

OPENING READING

Paul Said: "There is neither Jew nor Gentile, neither slave nor free, nor is there male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus". (Galatians 3:28)

COLLECT

God of all creation, whose wisdom and love is boundless. You have many names and you are beyond all divisions of gender.

We have many names for our sexual and gender identities. We give you thanks for the diversity of sexuality and gender. At times we deny that diversity by holding too strongly and tightly to the divisions that we ourselves create.

As we come together to remember those transgender people who have been killed, taken their own lives or been injured, help us to honour their identities, and the identities of all people. Help us to create a world where everyone can live with authenticity and dignity.

Help us all; who belong to every sexuality and gender, to live our own lives in true fulfilment of our different identities, in fellowship with each other and in the Love of Christ.

Amen.

READINGS

Romans 8: 31-39 and/or Matthew 22:30-40

REFLECTION (Susan Gilchrist)

Great harm is done when people use the most insulting sexual slur they can find and then apply it to transgender people. Not only is the insult itself destructive, it is being applied to people who are trying to live lives which are true to who they are. According to some groups a person's sex (male or female) is an immutable biological reality which is unambiguously identifiable at birth. It is alleged by these groups that there is no rational or compassionate reason to affirm a distorted psychological self-concept that one's "gender identity" is different from one's biological sex. That viewpoint is reinforced by the traditional teachings which condemn homosexuality and, by implication, gender variant behaviour as intrinsically disordered.

This does not match the experience of transgender people, who find their gender identity contradicts their biological sex. Many have fought against this unremitting sense of gender identity for many years. There is the same range of moral attitudes and behaviour among transgender people as there is in society at large. There is also as great a range of sexual orientations among transgender people as that which exists in wider society. Thus the primary concern for transgender people is about their identity. It is not about any sexual act.

These condemnations did not help David, a human rights lawyer with an outstanding international representation who, as Sonia, became intimately involved with her Anglican Parish Church, when she was killed by being pushed off the platform in front of an underground train in King's cross station. Today these condemnations do not help Angela who is becoming suicidal, not because of the attitude of her fellow workers, who she describes as brilliant, but because of the difficulties her senior management created. They do not help those who have fought their inner sense of gender identity for years, the trauma of which has now brought them to collapse. They do not help the person beside you, living an ordinary, unremarkable and respectable life in the role to which they truly belong, who may have come on the gender journey transsexuals make.

For Paul there was no male and female and nothing in all creation that could separate anyone from the Love of God. For Jesus the Love of God reigned beyond all gender and was totally supreme. If Jesus and Paul did not condemn people for being true to their own identities, then who are we to do so instead?

A LITURGY FOR TRANSGENDER DAY OF REMEMBRANCE

This teaching is not reflected in today's society. Many transgender people report harassment, mistreatment and discrimination in their jobs. The rejection by family members, the refusal to use the appropriate gender pronoun; and the insistence on continuing to address someone by the name they used before transition are attacks that are commonly found. The scapegoating which occurs when societies and religious organisations condemn all transgender people for the misdemeanours of some creates great misunderstanding and distress.

Many sources report that 41% of transsexuals have attempted suicide at least once in their lives. The lack of understanding which brands transgender people as gender benders, pretenders, paedophiles, fraudsters and perverts is the source from which the greatest discrimination occurs. Our society should be one in which this ignorance and misunderstanding no longer applies, and a society in which the Gospel of love is fully expressed. The need for transgender people is to live the same lives to the same moral standards as everyone else in ways that are true to their own identities.

We now remember those transgender people who have been murdered and killed during the previous year because of the hate that has been generated by these misunderstandings and through the prejudice and discrimination that occurs.

LIST OF NAMES

A witness of TDOR is to read out the names of those Transgender persons who have lost their lives in the past year. The list of names will be published before the Transgender Day of Remembrance via: tdor.info. If this is not available, a separate list may be used. (You may wish to include the list of those who have died by suicide; these are not on the TDOR list.)

INTERCESSIONS

For Loss

Let us pray for all those who have been killed or died because they have not conformed to the gender roles that society expects. Grant them peace and bring to those they leave behind them your comfort in the knowledge that all people, irrespective of gender identity or sexual orientation are enfolded and are precious in the Love of Christ.

God in your wisdom

Hear our Prayer

For Understanding

As we reflect on this list of names and the deaths of so many people, help us God to think afresh about what it means to belong to our own gender and to be transgender; for we are all as one in your love. As far as we are able to, help us to listen, and to learn to understand what it means to be transgender, so that we and all transgender people always, and in harmony, live to the full, the Gospel of Love in our everyday lives

For Self-Acceptance

We acknowledge the harm that our prejudice and ignorance has sometimes unknowingly created. We recognise the feelings of guilt and self-loathing that transgender people themselves feel when they apply these negative messages about transgender people in general to themselves. It is your love that transcends all genders. Grant us wisdom care and concern that all of us, whatever our genders and backgrounds are fellow companions on our journeys, and that we are all equally accepted for who we are in the Love of Christ

God in your wisdom

Hear our Prayer

For the support of other people.

For transgender people the journey across genders crosses many divides. Help not only transgender people, but their friends, spouses and supporters make that journey together to find a true meeting place beyond these divides. For transgender people who are rejected by their families or lack social support we ask you to give all people involved, the strength and understanding to overcome these obstacles, and to bring new opportunities for relationships to be restored

God in your wisdom

Hear our Prayer

For an end to discrimination and Abuse

Despite gender equality legislation, discrimination still occurs. Transsexuals find it difficult to gain employment. Unemployment rates are high. The attitudes of others may make it impossible to continue in any employment that is held. Transsexual people are vulnerable to attacks on their homes and on the streets. Verbal abuse is common. God we ask you to grant wisdom, care and compassion to all people who engage in these disruptive activities; so that we may all live together in peace.

God in your wisdom

Hear our Prayer

To work for a more understanding society

God, we have all failed in our understanding by embracing the historic presumptions and traditional teaching that transsexuals are following a lifestyle choice in pursuit of sexual rewards; and not of identity instead. We have failed in the treatment and management methods that have been prescribed because of the medical misdiagnoses that have been made. We recognise the harm that this has brought. Help all of us God to create a greater understanding in society and to promote a future which is not bound to the attitudes of the past but, one which can move forward to promote the fullness of life in all in the world

God in your wisdom

Hear our Prayer

For forgiveness and Love

Loving God, Creator of the Universe, you know are inner hearts. Too often we have failed to follow your ways. Forgive us for our past failures. Grant us fresh hearts and new minds so that we can celebrate the full richness and diversity of human experience in the Love of Christ.

BLESSING

May the blessings of God's Love
And the joy of God's Peace
Be found in us all
Now and Always
Amen
