Hope in Conflict

Can we find hope in times of conflict – personal, communal, international?

Programme

Rev. Simon Taylor, Baptist Chaplain, will chair.

Keynote address by Pádraig, followed by panel discussion.

GROUP DISCUSSIONS

JO BERRY, founder of charity Building Bridges for Peace, whose father died in the Brighton bombing; her dialogue with Pat McGee, sentenced for his part in the bombing, has inspired others to choose a non-violent solution: Finding our own humanity.

JUDE TAYLORSON, acupuncturist, and a student of Vietnamese Zen teacher Thich Nhat Hahn, she was formerly Buddhist Chaplain at the University, and offers an experiential workshop: Peace in oneself, Peace in the World.

LOUISA BURNAND, of the Centre for Peaceful Solutions, who has worked helping prisoners to develop new ways to communicate: From Conflict to Contribution – prisoners making a difference.

JAYME REAVES, a public theologian, who will include the potential of hospitality for building communities: The Politics of Abrahamic Hospitality :- Solidarity, Sanctuary and Resilience

REV. JONATHAN HERBERT & BROTHER HUGH, Anglican Franciscan friars from Hilfield Friary Dorset, on a Franciscan view on peace and reconciliation.

PÁDRAIG will lead a group on Brexit and the Book of Ruth.

THE MULTIFAITH CHAPLAINCY OF EXETER UNIVERSITY: Creative working in a multifaith team. The team is celebrating its 10th anniversary as multifaith and is hosting this event alongside the South West Corrymeela Group.
